

A NEW BEGINNING: RAUMPLUS CREATES NEW MARKETS

raumplus, the Bremen-based manufacturer of sliding doors, partition walls, wardrobes and room solutions made to measure, will be presenting its new brand CUB+IQ by raumplus at this year's in-house exhibition in the permanent showroom at nobilia in Verl (from 20 to 28 September 2025).

modular, flexible, clever! That's the new CUB+IQ by raumplus brand.

As a special highlight of this year's in-house exhibition, raumplus is presenting its new brand CUB+IQ by raumplus, which opens up new possibilities for interior design with the new modular system miio. The modular wardrobe system combines simple planning and flexibility with the customer's need for individuality and contemporary designs for their own home.

miio impresses with its wide range of design options and, thanks to its modular construction, allows wardrobe configurations to be created in just a few minutes. Planning and ordering remain simple, and assembly is straightforward. Fixed heights and depths, variable widths, practical accessories and selected design elements enable tailor-made furnishing solutions. This transforms a modular system into furniture that enriches living spaces and at the same time provides new inspiration during consultations. And all this in the usual 'Made in Germany' quality.

In addition to the new CUB+IQ by raumplus brand, visitors to the in-house exhibition can also look forward to innovations in the high-end segment of raumplus in the newly designed 150 m² showroom, which showcases custom-made doors, cabinet systems, stand-alone furniture and matching accessories.

New profile colour as a timeless design eye-catcher

A special highlight: the Pivot Door S1200, winner of the German Design Award 2025 – now also available in impressive new dimensions and in the elegant profile colour champagne. The profile colour is now available for pivot and sliding doors as well as fixed elements in the S1200 series. The soft metallic colour gives the product range an elegant, luxurious look. The champagne tone is a subtle alternative to classic gold, creating an understated effect. Its subtle depth and slight sheen create a special depth effect that makes rooms appear more spacious and brighter.

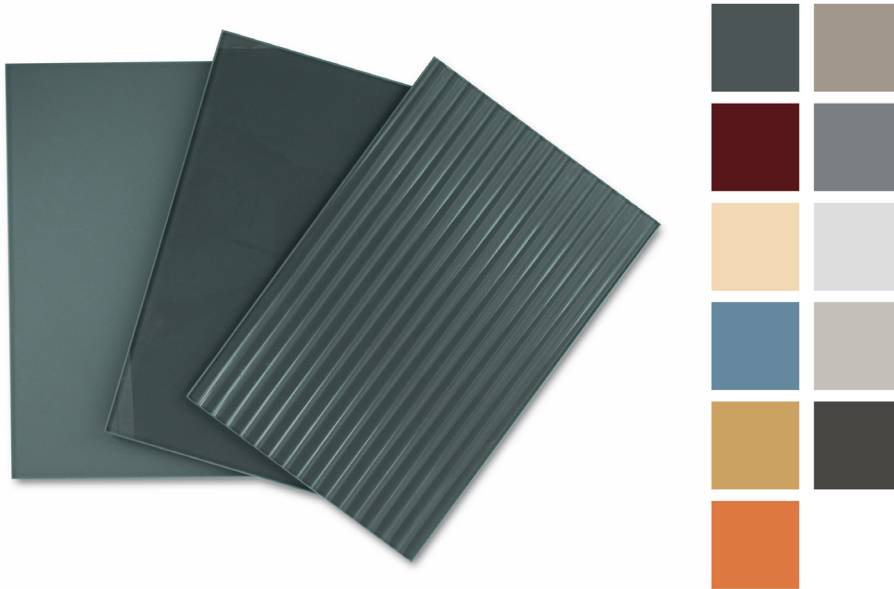

The Pivot Door S1200 XL opens up exclusive perspectives in interior design with its oversized dimensions of up to 1800 x 3500 mm per door or a maximum area of 5 sq m. These dimensions enable a sophisticated ambience for impressive room situations and unique style worlds.

New solutions for storage space and wardrobe design

Clever innovations in the field of wardrobe solutions and additional design options round off the trade fair presentation. The new RPS 29G aluminium frame hinge door, for example, is particularly practical: it impresses with an exceptionally wide opening angle of up to 245 degrees, offering maximum flexibility in everyday use. Thanks to the extended access to the clothes and utensils stored in the wardrobe, every centimetre is used optimally.

In addition to the already wide range of possible variations, the interior system Ecoline has now been enhanced with a number of innovations:

- Hinge doors are now available with mirrors attached either to the outside or inside, and glass panels are now also available as an option for the outside of hinge doors.
- Glass shelves made of robust safety glass will complement the range of wooden shelves as an additional style element
- Open compartments with a back panel are added as a versatile element, e.g. as a decorative storage surface
- A practical drawer divider allows for new organisation of accessories such as jewellery, watches and belts

Curated trend colours for highlights

With the new glass variants in matt, glossy and textured, further design options are also available for all door panels. The glass collection (available up to a maximum size of 1200 x 3050 mm) picks up on the characteristic colours of our surfaces – from warm earth tones to soft grey shades. This palette blends seamlessly into any interior and creates an ambience that is both calming and stylish. To add accents, we have supplemented the collection with a carefully curated selection of trend colours. These highlights – inspired by the latest international design trends – give every room an individual touch. Whether bold accents or soft splashes of colour, the collection offers countless possibilities for bringing personality to interior design.
